Got robbed while recording music

Finson drops his new single “Flood” featuring vocalist Ida Isax.

(Oslo, Norway) march 1st, 2016

“Flood” is Finson’s second single this year, and this time in collaboration with vocalist Ida Isax. Date of release is mar 7th, 2016, and will be available in all digital stores and streaming platforms.

After a year of residency in Greece, Finson has now resettled his home studio on a farm in the Norwegian countryside. He has recently released the EP “Going South”, the singles “Trouble”, “Corazon” and “Yeah Yeah Yeah”, plus a well received unofficial remix of “Hyde” by Astrid S.

Finson and Ida Isax are long time fans of each others music, and a musical collab. was long wished for by both of them. “Flood” started out as an old sketch from Finson’s catalogue of unfinished ideas. With an acoustic guitar, a notebook and a hefty dose of Finson’s favourite ice-cream, they puzzled the track together.

On their first vocal recording session in Ida’s home studio in Oslo, things didn’t quite turn out as planned. Finson brought his own recording equipment, placed it in the staircase of the apartment building and parked the car around the corner. Meanwhile, a thief sneaked in and stole the whole expensive bunch! Finson describes:

“It was like ninja-theft! I was only away for two seconds, and BAM. I ran around the neighbourhood, with testosterone sky-high, looking for the bastard. Luckily I did not find him.”

With his new single “Flood”, Finson blends pop into an electronic landscape. Acoustic elements are still an essence in his music. The song has a steady groove, a powerful soundscape and a beautiful lead vocal by Isax, describing regret after infidelity and the desperate attempt to make up for what’s done.
